Introduction to the Cumulative Index, 1958-1988

The Nassau Historical Society (NCHS) converted this Index into electronic form in 2014 from its original print edition with the permission of the Long Island Studies Institute, Hofstra University.

NCHS Trustee David R. Doucette scanned and converted the text. I updated information on pp. iii-iv (e.g. adding current telephone number and e-mail addresses) and made a few corrections. Other editing changes have been minimal, but additions are indicated in brackets [thus] and include references to articles later reprinted.

The NCHS website (www.NassauCountyHistoricalSociety.org) lists articles in the annual Journal from 1989, i.e. covering articles since this index. An earlier Cumulative Index, covering vols. 1-18, 1937-1957, was published in 1958 (vol. 19, no. 2, part 2) and is also available electronically on this website.

We trust this and our other indexes—as well as the articles themselves— will be useful to researchers and all those interested in local history.

FOREWORD

With the publication of this index, we honor Myron H. Luke, the dean of Long Island's historians. Myron Luke became Editor of the Nassau County Historical Society Journal in 1950, when he was teaching in the History Department at Hofstra. He edited all issues of the Journal indexed here and continued to serve as its editor [until 1996]. Dr. Luke is a past president of the Historical Society and has been a trustee since 1951. He has been Historian of the Town of Hempstead for many years and is Professor Emeritus of History at C. W. Post College of Long Island University. This index is an acknowledgment of his many contributions to the Nassau County Historical Society, the historical profession, and Long Island's heritage.

[Myron H. Luke died in 2000 in his 95th year. See "Memorial for Myron H. Luke" in the Nassau County Historical Society Journal 55 (2000): vii-viii.]

Jeanne M. Burke is a librarian and [was] Head of Serials Acquisitions in the Hofstra Library [in 1988]. Her careful work in compiling this Index makes it a valuable and important contribution to Long Island researchers.

We are pleased to make this Cumulative Index available to Nassau County Historical Society members and libraries. It is a companion volume to the Index compiled earlier by Edward J. Smits, covering the first 21 years of the Journal, 1937-1957. This Index of twenty-five volumes makes the more recent articles easily accessible and includes information on a wide range of topics of interest to researchers and avocational historians.

All issues of the Nassau County Historical Society Journal can be consulted at the Long Island Studies Institute and at many other university and public libraries on Long Island.

NASSAU COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Nassau County Historical Society was established in 1915 for the purpose of encouraging research and the development of an interest in the history and genealogy of the area. Bimonthly meetings, which present speakers and programs on various aspects of Long Island history, are held at different locations in the county. Members receive the Society's Journal, which has been published since 1937. The Historical Society officially named its collection of books the Jesse Merritt Memorial Library in 1957, honoring the man who had revived the Society in the 1930s and served as county historian for many years. Its collection was loaned to the Nassau County Museum in 1963, and it now forms part of the Long Island Studies Institute collections at Hofstra University. For information on Historical Society membership and availability of back issues of the Journal, contact the Nassau County Historical Society, P.O. Box 207, Garden City, NY 11530 [or the website, NassauCountyHistoricalSociety.org].

LONG ISLAND STUDIES INSTITUTE

The Long Island Studies Institute at Hofstra University was established in 1985. The Nassau County Museum Reference Library combined with Hofstra's James N. MacLean Nassau County American Legion Memorial Library collection in New York State History to create a major resource for the study of Long Island local and regional history. The reference collection [located in room 032 on the ground floor of the east wing] of the Axinn Library is available to scholars, teachers, students, and the general public. [In its early years] the Institute also housed the historical research offices of the Nassau County Historian and Division of Museum Services. The Long Island Studies Institute promotes and encourages the study of Long Island's history and heritage through its collections, conferences, programs, publications, educational resources, and services, serving Long Island and the broader historical community. For further information, contact the Long Island Studies Institute, Hofstra University, Hempstead, NY 11550 [LISI@hofstra.edu; 516-463-6411].

PREFACE

This index covers articles published in the Nassau County Historical Society Journal from 1958 through 1988. It is a cumulative index in dictionary form, i.e. title, author and subject entries are arranged in one alphabetical list. Book reviews and brief historical notes are not indexed.

As seen by the following examples, subject entries are listed in upper case letters to distinguish them from author or title entries.

1) Smith, Julian Denton

"Aunt Delia." 38 pp.37-45 (1983); reprinted from 17:1 pp.21-29 (1956)

"Grandpa Denton—Country Doctor." 40 pp.17-24 (1985);
reprinted from 17:4 pp.19-26 (1956)

"High Hill Beach." 32:2 pp.1-14 (1972)

2) SMITH, JULIAN DENTON

"Smith, Julian Denton" (picture and obituary), 34:1 pp.iv-vi (1975)

The first entry lists Mr. Denton as an author and is followed by the articles written by him. The second entry lists him as a subject, and is followed by the article written about him.

Citations are listed by volume, issue number, pages and date; e.g.

29:2 pp.38-43 (1969)

refers to volume 29, issue number 2, pages 38-43, dated 1969.
